How to Watch Canelo vs. Crawford Live on Netflix This WeekendThe fight of the century goes down tonight. Here's how to stream it live at no additional cost.

Fight night is finally here. Tonight, Canelo Álvarez and Terence “Bud” Crawford will finally step into the ring for one of the biggest boxing events in years — and you can stream it live on Netflix.

And best news of all? There's no pay-per-view price tag. The Canelo vs. Crawford fight is included with every Netflix subscription, meaning fans worldwide can tune in at no extra cost.

Here's how to watch:

When: Saturday, Sept. 13, at 9 p.m. ET / 6 p.m. PT (prelims begin in the evening, streaming
here on Tudum; main event follows on Netflix)

Where: Allegiant Stadium, Las Vegas — streaming globally, only on

Netflix

Price: Unlike traditional pay-per-view combat events, Canelo vs. Crawford is free with your Netflix subscription, included in all plans.

How: Log in to your Netflix account, and look for the fight featured on the homepage. You can also set a reminder to be notified when the broadcast goes live. Canelo (63-2-2, 39 KOs), the undisputed super middleweight champion, faces undefeated Crawford (41-0, 31 KOs) in a match-up that could redefine both fighters' legacies. The Canelo vs. Crawford card is also stacked with heavy hitters, including Irish boxing sensation Callum Walsh taking on an undefeated Fernando Vargas Jr. For more information and fight night updates, check out Tudum's Canelo vs. Crawford hub.
